

Finding DoFollow Blogs With Google

Finding dofollow blogs is not always an easy task. There are a lot of do follow lists out there, mostly lists on blogs.

Most are great lists, but not every dofollow blog owner wants to be on those lists. They are afraid that being on those lists will bring out the comment spammers.

Since there are a lot of great dofollow blogs that are not on any lists, how do you find them?

Paul at SearchEnginePeople.com provides a Google search query to help you find dofollow blogs based on a keyword search.

Using Paul's keyword search is great since it will help you find dofollow blogs for your niche. It's always preferable to comment on blogs related to your website.

I've tried the search for several keywords and it works very well.

Use this Google query to find dofollow blogs for your niche, but remember to post good, relative comments.

Here are some common sense dofollow blog commenting tips that will help you get your comments approved.

Brought to you by the DoFollow Blog Directory